

June 4, 2011, Daily News

Saturday, 04 June 2011

Last Updated Sunday, 05 June 2011

Microsoft Rumored To Launch A Subscription TV Service At E3

Bitbag

Project Orapa is the codename used by Microsoft that would combine Xbox Live and Microsoft's Mediaroom IPTV. Theoretically it could allow Microsoft to offer ...

MSFT

Rumor has Microsoft Announcing TV Service at E3

Kotaku

But Xbox Live "Diamond," an IPTV service, has been chewed over by insiders for a few months. GameSpot notes that Reuters reported, six months ago, ...

Xbox Live 'Diamond' IPTV Service to Debut at E3 - Report

1UP.com - Chris Pereira

Rumors of an IPTV service for Xbox 360 have been around nearly as long as the system has. Back in 2007 there were hints about ...

Microsoft To Launch Xbox Live TV Streaming Service At E3, Rumours

ITProPortal - Ravi Mandalia

The Xbox Live Diamond TV service is the by-product of the integration between Microsoft's Mediaroom IPTV platform and Xbox Live. ...

Xbox Live TV service for E3 reveal?

Digital Spy - Mark Langshaw

According to Winrumors, the studio will hold a demonstration of the IPTV platform under the codename 'Orapa' at the Los Angeles expo. ...

Microsoft's TV subscription, if not rumored may launch with ...

International Business Times

The service named Xbox LIVE Diamond, will combine Microsoft's "mediaroom IPTV services" with Xbox LIVE. Frank Shaw, Microsoft's corporate vice president of ...

Exterity to Demonstrate Market-leading Building IPTV Solutions at ...

SYS-CON Media (press release) (blog)

Atlanta, Georgia, 3rd June 2011: Exterity, the Building IPTV specialist, will be showcasing the latest additions to its range of TV and video over IP ...

Xbox 360 IPTV service reportedly to debut at E3

Examiner.com

A new level of Xbox LIVE service called 'Diamond' is reported to be on the docket for Microsoft's E3 press conference and it will bring a new IPTV service ...

Microsoft rumored to announce subscription TV service as Apple's ...

Apple Insider - Josh Ong

The service, which will reportedly be named Xbox LIVE Diamond, will combine Microsoft's "mediaroom IPTV services" with Xbox LIVE. ...